

BILBERRY MEAD

∴ BEAR'S FEAST BREW ∴

Bilberry shrub covers as much as 17% of Sweden's landscape. It's an essential part of the Scandinavian bear's diet in their preparation for winter hibernation. The Bear's Feast Brew consists out of bilberry juice, fermented together with another favourite among bears, Honey, into a dry beverage that resembles red wine. Serve it at room temperature to be consumed with main course meat dishes. The slight taste of forest, makes it especially good with game. Just the way a bear would love it.

SWEET HONEY MEAD

∴ JARL'S BREW ∴

Swedish honey predominantly comes from wildflowers, such as white clover, raspberry blossom and lingonberry blossom. The Jarl's Brew uses raspberry blossom honey, as well as the much rarer linden honey. In comparison with a dry mead, it contains twice the amount of honey. The mead has also matured up to two years before bottling, allowing it to find its prime. The Jarl's Brew is a sweet mead that fits to be enjoyed after a meal, with dessert or on its own.

The Suttungr Brew has been developed together with Mjödhamnen, Sweden's largest and most distinguished mead producer. LINGONBERRY MEAD

∴ SUTTUNGR BREW ∴

Archaeological findings reveal that mead with honey and lingonberry was brewed in Scandinavia already during the Bronze Age. Inspired by this ancient mead, the Suttungr Brew uses only naturally obtained Swedish ingredients from carefully selected sources. The pine shoots and the rich heather honey mixed lingonberries results in a mead with a rustic feel of Viking Age Sweden. The Suttungr Brew fits perfectly with rich and tasty food and it can be enjoyed both cold and room tempered.
